ENGLISH :

Learning objective: Creating a DIY mini notebook focused on a specific writer's work is a powerful, low-stakes project that combines creative arts with literary analysis. The primary learning objectives focus on fostering a deeper connection to literature, developing analytical skills, and cultivating a personal writing identity.

Assignment: With regards to the chapter 'Wind' written by Subramania Bharati, find out about the works of Subramania Bharati. Make a DIY on some of her three most famous poems. Include pictures of her poem/ book covers as well.

Learning Outcomes: Making a DIY mini notebook focused on a writer's work is a powerful, hands-on activity that blends literary analysis with creative arts, fostering both cognitive and fine motor skills. It transforms passive reading into active, personalized engagement, encouraging learners to "live like a writer" by collecting, synthesizing, and interpreting literary work.

SCIENCE

Nature Explorers:

Observations: Visit a garden, park, or even your terrace. Find five different types of leaves that have already fallen to the ground (try not to pluck fresh ones) Look for variety in: size, shape and color.

Documentation: For each leaf, dry it in the folds of a newspaper create a dedicated page in your scrapbook. Secure the leaf using clear tape or glue provide the following details:

- Common name (if you know it, or if not, describe it)
- Where you found it?
- What is its physical feature? (texture, venation and margin)

Reflection: Think about leaves have different shapes and how do these leaves help the plant and the insects living around them? What did you notice about the veins of the leaves? Write about these in a table.
